FL Senate President Calls for Leadership

On January 20th 40 Senators were hosted by the Policy and Steering Committee on Ways and Means. The focus of the meeting was to be provided by speakers Dr. David Denslow, Bureau of Economic and Business Research with the University of Florida, and Amy Baker, Office of Economic and Demographic Research with the Florida Legislature. "In depth presentations on Florida's economic indicators" were presented.

Atwater's memo included a number of interesting observations about Florida's economic situation. He noted that the federal Health Care reform package could have significant impact on Florida's future, congressional bills introduced in Washington and various impacts on our state's budget, citizens and

According to Atwater "economic indicators show that Florida has begun to see signs of growth and recovery from arguably the worst recession in recent times." He cautioned, though, that "our projections show that the modest growth in our state revenues will be consumed by the increasing costs of our health and social services programs, notably the Medicaid program" and observed that "we are carving out a new history, one that will require each of us to help create a FL budget that reflects the times we are living in now." Also on Jan. 20 the Transparency Florida website will go live for the general public. "This website will show how we are carefully and purposefully spending each dollar they send to Tallahassee." In a January 8, 2010 Memo State Senate President Jeff Atwater invited all forty State Senators to a meeting
